Why 'All In One?'
Health isn't built by workouts alone.

Real transformation happens when fitness, nutrition, mindset, accountability, recovery, and lifestyle all work together.

That's why I created All In One Fitness.

My coaching isn't about giving you another workout plan. It's about helping you build a lifestyle that allows you to stay healthy, energetic, confident, and active for decades.

Fitness is the vehicle. Transformation is the destination.

What We Build Together
Body Transformation
Build muscle, lose fat, become stronger, move pain-free and improve performance.

Mindset Transformation
Develop confidence, resilience, discipline, and a healthier relationship with exercise.

Lifestyle Transformation
Create routines that fit your life and finally become consistent.

Health & Longevity
Increase energy, reduce disease risk, prevent injuries, and improve quality of life for years to come.

Coaching & Accountability
Stay hopeful, motivated, supported, and accountable through every stage of your journey.

Meet Everett

I wasn't always confident in my body.

Growing up, I was bullied because of how I looked and struggled with anorexia, graduating high school at just 105 pounds.

I hated taking my shirt off and wore hoodies and long sleeves for years because I was embarrassed by my body. I felt weak, had little confidence, low energy, and didn't understand nutrition or how to improve my health. More than anything, I felt stuck and helpless.

Strength training changed everything.

Over the following years I gained more than 60 pounds, transformed my body, rebuilt my confidence, and discovered that fitness is about far more than appearance. It improves your energy, mindset, resilience, relationships, and quality of life.

That journey inspired me to earn degrees in Exercise Science and Sport & Exercise Psychology and dedicate my career to helping others experience the same transformation.

Today my mission is simple:

Help people become stronger, healthier, more confident, and live longer by building habits that last for life.

My Philosophy

Exercise can change lives.

It improves physical health, mental health, confidence, energy, independence, and longevity.

My goal isn't simply to help you lose weight or build muscle.

It's to help you create a lifestyle where taking care of yourself becomes part of who you are.

When fitness becomes a lifestyle, everything else improves.
